

WINE ENTHUSIAST92
POINTSAlloro 2015 Estate
Chardonnay (Chehalem Mountains)

All Dijon clones from the Alloro vineyard, this tightly wound effort mixes tree-fruit flesh and skin flavors in a compact balanced wine with some good years of life ahead.

There's a pleasing nuttiness resonating through the finish, from a small percentage that was fermented in new French oak. Give it an extra year or two in bottle and it should open up nicely.

— P.G. Published 4/1/2018

WINE ENTHUSIAST92
POINTSAlloro 2015 Estate
Chardonnay (Chehalem Mountains)

All Dijon clones from the Alloro vineyard, this tightly wound effort mixes tree-fruit flesh and skin flavors in a compact balanced wine with some good years of life ahead.

There's a pleasing nuttiness resonating through the finish, from a small percentage that was fermented in new French oak. Give it an extra year or two in bottle and it should open up nicely.

— P.G. Published 4/1/2018

WINE ENTHUSIAST

92

POINTS

Alloro 2015 Estate Chardonnay (Chehalem Mountains)

All Dijon clones from the Alloro vineyard, this tightly wound effort mixes tree-fruit flesh and skin flavors in a compact balanced wine with some good years of life ahead.

There's a pleasing nuttiness resonating through the finish, from a small percentage that was fermented in new French oak. Give it an extra year or two in bottle and it should open up nicely.

— P.G. Published 4/1/2018